Hosted by:

Themes /Objectives

- ❖ To purposefully build networks and partnerships among LEADS users.
- ❖ To mobilize knowledge within the group re: fostering the development of others.
- ❖ To mobilize knowledge re: the use LEADS to support strategic change.

Facilitator

Shauna Fenwick, BNSc, CEC, MA – LEADS Facilitator & Coach

Preparation

Come prepared to discuss 2 things:

1. Think of a time when you used LEADS to foster someone else's development that was a highlight for you. Depending on your work, this could have been a time when you designed or delivered a LEADS based workshop, coached someone to improve their performance using LEADS, or consulted with an individual or organization about how to use LEADS for leadership development. If you are new to using LEADS, think of an example of how you've supported someone else's development (using LEADS if possible).
2. Each of us, no matter our position, faces challenges to achieve goals. When these goals are longer term or department or organization wide we often call them "strategic". Think about the work that you are doing in the coming year. What is the biggest or boldest or most strategic challenge that you and your team / department / organization faces? Think of a challenge where you are directly involved. In particular think of a strategic challenge where you don't yet have all the answers. Come prepared to discuss this challenge in a small group.
